Acting Headteacher: Mr Andrew Marsh

Date 8th September 2011

Dear Parents

I am writing to you to welcome you to the new school year, either as a returning parent, or possibly as a new parent if your child has started in reception this year.

I hope that you all had a lovely break and made the most of the mediocre weather. You never know, we might be in for an Indian summer in the next few weeks!

Just to remind you all, I will be at Cossington for two days each week. These days will usually be Monday and Thursday. I will try to be available at the beginnings and ends of days if you would like a chat, and if you would like to book a meeting with me on one of those days please check with the office.

I have only been at Cossington for a short time and I have been so impressed by the wonderfully supportive ethos of the staff here and by the friendly, happy children. I am sure that we will all have a great year and I am looking forward to learning all the children's names and watching them make excellent progress in their learning!

We will be sending out a newsletter next week with lots of information about events coming up in the autumn term. It is a busy time of year, one with plenty of opportunities for continuing to develop the strong relationship between staff, children and parents at Cossington School.

Yours Sincerely

Mr Andrew Marsh
Acting Headteacher
